Ruling party washes hands of Davide impeachment

By Cynthia D. Ramos
and Juliet L. Guevarra

It is "inappropriate" that President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo and the ruling party were involved in the impeachment case against former Justice Secretary Davide, Speaker Juan P. Moreno said yesterday.

In a telephone interview with Inquirer, Moreno said that the House is a place for political expression, not for the President's defense or attack. He said the ruling administration should not be involved in the impeachment case, as it would be a "disgrace" for the House.

A lawmaker said the House should remain neutral in the case, as it is a "sacred ground" for the people. He said the House should not be used as a "tool" for the President's defense.

Supporters of President Arroyo gathered in front of the Malacañan Palace to show their support for her. The crowd was estimated to be around 10,000 people.

Contraceptives: Who should foot the bill?

A woman's right to control her own body is a fundamental principle of American society. But when it comes to paying for contraception, the government often steps in to help. The Supreme Court's decision in National Endowment for the Arts v. American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ACOG) is a landmark case that could have far-reaching implications for women's health care.

Opponents should be aware that the government's role in funding contraception is not a new phenomenon.

In the past, the government has provided funding for a variety of contraceptive services, including family planning clinics and the distribution of birth control pills. This funding has been a critical part of ensuring that women have access to the tools they need to make informed decisions about their reproductive health.

Figure 1 is a schematic diagram of the experimental setup. It shows a laser beam (632.8 nm) entering from the left, passing through a series of optical components including a beam splitter, lenses, and a polarizing beam splitter. The beam is then directed onto a sample, which is a thin layer on a substrate. The setup is designed to measure the reflectance and transmittance of the sample.

Advice on how to be a CEO: Overcome fear

By Pauline Lee-Gomez

MANILA, Philippines — For many entrepreneurs, the biggest hurdle to becoming a CEO is not a lack of capital or talent, but a lack of confidence. It's a common fear that can hold back even the most talented individuals. However, overcoming this fear is essential for success in the business world.

One way to overcome fear is to start small. Begin with a side project or a small business. This allows you to gain experience and build confidence without the pressure of a large-scale venture. As you grow, you can gradually take on more responsibility and risk.

Another key strategy is to surround yourself with a supportive network. Seek out mentors, advisors, and peers who can provide guidance and encouragement. Having a strong support system can help you navigate challenges and stay motivated during difficult times.

It's also important to embrace failure. Failure is a natural part of the entrepreneurial journey. Instead of seeing it as a setback, view it as a learning opportunity. Analyze what went wrong, learn from your mistakes, and use that knowledge to improve your business.

Finally, remember that success is a journey, not a destination. Stay focused on your long-term goals and maintain a positive attitude. Consistency and perseverance are key to overcoming fear and achieving your dreams as a CEO.

MISSOURI being and their friends

I don't know if it's a coincidence or not, but I've been thinking about Auntie's wedding a lot lately. It's been so long since I saw her, and I wonder how she is. I hope she's happy and healthy. I remember the day she got married, and how beautiful she was. I wish I could see her again, just to say hello and tell her how much I love her.

When I think about Auntie, I always remember her smile. She was always so kind and generous. I wish I could be like her. I wish I could have her wisdom and her love. I wish I could be a part of her life. I wish I could see her again, just to say hello and tell her how much I love her.

God's plan for us as we attend Mother Teresa's beatification

Rome, Italy (CNS) — The beatification of Mother Teresa of Calcutta is a momentous occasion for the Catholic Church. It is a testament to her life of service and love. We are called to reflect on her example and to strive to live our lives in a similar spirit of selflessness and compassion.
